

Margaret Eckert-Norton PhD, FNP. is an Associate Professor St. Joseph's College, Dept. of Nursing, Brooklyn, NY. She obtained her PhD in Nursing Research and theory from New York University. She is a board certified Family Nurse Practitioner and a Certified Diabetes Educator and was

Fellow and faculty Scholar for HRSA/ AMERSA (Association for Medical Education and Research) for Substance Abuse MAINSTREAM Program

Current Appointments

Margaret's clinical practice is in the Department of Medicine, Endocrine Division SUNY-Health Science Center at Brooklyn.

Assistant Director Department of Nursing: graduate admissions

Elected to University:

Faculty Practice Council

Chair Department of Nursing Peer Review Committee

Faculty Interest Committee

Curriculum Committee

Assessment Advisory Committee and Sampling Sub-Committee

Technology Committee

Professional Society Committee Memberships

Current Chair, The Endocrine Society Advocacy and Public Policy Core Committee

Served as President of Endocrine Nurses Society

Research & Publication Focus

Renal function ,hypertension in peoples of African American descent with NIDDM

Patterns of Self-Care Decision Making in Women of African Descent with Type 2 Diabetes Living in Urban America

Sub-Investigator for NIH sponsored studies.

Current: GRADE (Type 2 diabetes study)

Completed: ACCORD & SPRINT (hypertension trial)

Awards

Recipient: NYU Jacqueline Fawcett Scholarship in Nursing Theory – twice